WonderWorld

1 It's a big world

'Step this way. Climb into the car. Put on the safety harness. Next, please.
Step this way. Climb into the next car, please. Put on the safety harness ...'

WonderWorld, Florida on a Monday morning in December. There are 56,000 tourists in the theme park. It's Kelly's first day at WonderWorld and she's hot, tired, and thirsty.

'Put on the safety harness, please. Next ...'

Kelly's smiling at everybody. Kelly is working on 'It's a big world.' It's a children's ride. There's a Mexican town, then a Chinese town, a Japanese train, a Brazilian football stadium, and a French restaurant. Kelly can hear the music.

'We live in a big world, you and me!

We're all happy in our big world, big world

We're as happy as we can be.'

'I can't listen to this awful music all day,' she thinks. Kelly's wearing a yellow skirt, yellow shoes, and a red coat with a yellow hat. It's Kelly's vacation job. Kelly's a student and she's working here at WonderWorld for her vacation. She helps people into the cars for the ride. She's working with Paul. Paul's wearing yellow trousers and a red coat too.

'Step this way ...'

2 Happy people

A man and a woman are walking up the steps to the ride. A small girl is with them. She's wearing blue jeans, pink trainers, and a pink T-shirt. The man and woman aren't smiling.

Girl Hey! Mommy! I don't like this ride!

Mother But honey, this is 'It's a big world'. All the kids love this ride.

Girl Well, I don't! This is a ride for little kids! I want to go on 'Fly Into Space'.

Mother Not now, honey ...

Girl But this ride is ...

The little girl is saying some very bad words. And everybody is listening. Her mother's face is very red.

Mother Don't say that! Not here! This is WonderWorld, honey.

Everybody's happy ...

Girl Not me! I want to go on 'Fly Into Space'. I want to ...

Father Don't say, 'I want ...', honey. Say 'I'd like ...'

Girl I'd like to go on 'Fly Into Space'! I'd like to go on 'Fly Into Space'!
I'd like ...

Paul is smiling at the little girl.

Paul Hi, honey. Climb into this car, you're going to enjoy this ride ...

Girl Go away, dog face! I want to go ...

The father puts the little girl into the car. Her mother and father climb into the car, too. The little girl is crying now, but the cars move on and the ride is starting. Her mother and father aren't enjoying their day. A woman is standing next to Kelly. It's Ms Garcia, Kelly's supervisor.

Ms Garcia Kelly, are you enjoying your first day?

Kelly Yes, Ms Garcia.

Ms Garcia Well, I need you on 'Fly Into Space'. I don't usually put people on 'Fly Into Space' on their first day, but someone isn't at work today. Paul's OK here. He doesn't need you now. Can you come with me?

Kelly OK. Uh, bye, Paul. See you!

3 Under WonderWorld

Ms Garcia is opening a door. Kelly follows her. They go down some steps. Tourists don't see all of WonderWorld. There are rooms and tunnels under the theme park. You can get to every ride that way. The tunnels are clean and new, like everything in the park.

Ms Garcia Do you know "Fly Into Space"?

Kelly Yes, everyone knows "Fly Into Space".

And everyone does. It's on every TV advert for WonderWorld. It's a roller-coaster ride, but it's a roller-coaster ride in the dark. You can't see anything, and it's very fast. The small spaceships have seats for two people, and the safety harnesses are strong. The ride turns 360° four times. When people arrive at WonderWorld, a lot of them go to 'Fly Into Space' first. When the park opens at eight o'clock, people run to 'Fly Into Space'. Now, at ten thirty in the morning, the lines for 'Fly Into Space' are very long.

The tunnel is about five hundred metres long between 'It's a big world' and 'Fly Into Space'. Ms Garcia is talking about the ride.

Ms Garcia It's very safe. People can't open the safety harnesses, and the spaceships can't come off the tracks. The ride can't move when a safety harness is open. We can stop the ride at any time.

Kelly And what do I do?

Ms Garcia You check the safety harnesses. Every time someone gets into a car, you pull the safety harness down, and you check it.

Then the tunnel is going up. At the end, Ms Garcia opens a door. There's a room with a lot of silver suits and silver shoes.

Ms Garcia What size are you?

Kelly Size eight.

Ms Garcia You can find your size over there. Put the yellow skirt and shoes on the table.

4 'Fly Into Space'

'Fly Into Space' is in a big building. Kelly can hear the spaceships on the roller-coaster, and loud music is playing too. There is a long line of people. At the end of the line, there are two tracks with spaceships on them. A man in a silver suit asks people to go left or right to the spaceships. A man and a woman in silver suits are helping people into the spaceships and checking the harnesses. Ms Garcia is standing by the left track.

Ms Garcia Kelly! Over here! This is Jessica. Watch her. Watch her for five minutes. Then Jessica, you can go for your coffee, and Kelly can check the harnesses.

Jessica checks every harness carefully. There's a red light when the harness is open, and a green light when it is closed. But Jessica checks every time. Then the spaceships move away and climb slowly up the roller coaster.

Jessica Are you OK now? Can you do it?

Kelly Yes. I'm fine.

Jessica I'm going for my coffee. Twenty minutes, OK? You can ask Michael anything.

Kelly Michael?

Jessica That's Michael over there on the right track.

Twenty minutes, then Jessica comes back with Ms Garcia.

Ms Garcia Kelly, come with me. You're going to check sizes.

Kelly Check sizes? I don't understand.

Ms Garcia Small kids can't go on the ride. They're too small for the harnesses.

Kelly Small kids? How old?

Ms Garcia The question is 'what size?' not 'how old?'. We can't ask everybody, 'How old is your kid?'. We've got a sign. It's over here.

They walk by the line of people. It's very long. Then Kelly can see light. They're by the door to the building. There's a sign, with a red line across it.

BE SAFE!

Are you as tall as this line? If not, you can't ride "Fly Into Space".
NO FOOD • NO DRINK • NO SMOKING

A man in a silver suit is checking people.

Daniel OK, young man. Stand here. That's all right. Step this way, enjoy the ride! And you, young lady. OK, you're tall! Enjoy the ride! Walk that way. Excuse me, stand here. Oh, no, honey. I'm very sorry. Next year for you. Oh, excuse me, sir. No food or drink on the ride, or in the line. You can finish your ice-cream here, then you can go into the ride.

Ms Garcia Kelly, meet Daniel. He checks the sizes.

Daniel Hey, Kelly.

Kelly Hey.

Ms Garcia You can go for a coffee break, Daniel. Kelly's going to check the sizes for an hour.

Daniel OK. Be careful, Kelly. These kids try anything! Look at their shoes, not at their faces. They stand on their toes!

5 How tall are you?

Kelly checks the sizes for about forty-five minutes. A few people get angry when their kids can't ride, but people usually understand. Then Kelly sees the man and woman from 'It's a Big World'. They aren't smiling. The small girl is with them. Now she's got a WonderWorld baseball cap. She's eating an ice-cream.

Mother All right, honey, we're here. This is 'Fly Into Space'.

Father There's a long line, honey. We can go and get a hot dog, and we can come back this afternoon.

Girl I want to go now. NOW! I WANT TO GO NOW!

Kelly looks at the line on the sign, and at the little girl. This is going to be difficult.

Kelly Excuse me, honey, how tall are you? Can you ...

But the little girl is walking past her. Kelly holds the little girl's arm.

Kelly Wait, honey. Can you stand by the sign ...

Girl Aah! Mommy! Mommy! She's hurting my arm!

People are looking at Kelly now.

Mother Don't hold her arm! Who are you?

Kelly I'm sorry, ma'am. I need to check her size.

Mother I'm her mother. She's OK. Come on, honey.

Kelly No, ma'am. You don't understand. I need to check. She isn't very tall, and it isn't safe.

Father Look, she's all right. She wants to go on the ride.

Girl Daddy! Can I go on the ride NOW?

Kelly I'm very sorry, sir. This is my job. Can she stand over here?

The little girl stands by the sign with her ice-cream. Kelly looks down at her shoes. The shoes are thick trainers, and the little girl is standing on her toes.

Kelly Stand down, honey. Don't stand on your toes.

The little girl isn't two or three centimetres too small. She's six or seven centimetres too small.

Kelly Sorry, honey. Next year for you.

Now the little girl is crying. The man and woman are angry.

Man This park is twenty-five dollars for a little kid, and then she can't go on the ride!

Kelly I'm sorry, sir. But this ride isn't safe for small kids.

Father Twenty-five dollars! Then four dollars for a hot dog, three dollars for a cola, fifteen dollars for a hat and two seventy-five for that ice-cream ...

Mother Can we talk to your supervisor?

Kelly Yes, you can go to the park information office. Ask for Ms Garcia. Then the little girl runs! She's running very fast into the building. She's running past the line of people.

Mother Hey, you! Stop her!

Kelly Excuse me?

Mother Stop her! That ride isn't safe for small kids!

6 Up into space

Kelly is running past the long line of people. Where is the little girl? She can't see her. Then it's the end of the line. Kelly can see Jessica on the left track and Michael on the right track. They're helping people into the spaceships and checking their safety harnesses. There are a lot of people. They're waiting for the ride.

Michael is checking a safety harness. The green light goes on. Michael stands away, and the spaceship is moving slowly along the track and climbing up the roller-coaster. Then Kelly sees pink and blue – the little girl is running between some people. She throws her ice-cream down, then she runs past Michael and then she's on the spaceship. She's holding the back of the spaceship, and it's moving up the track. The woman in the back seat of the spaceship is looking round in surprise.

Kelly Hold her arm! Quick! Hold her arm.

But the woman can't turn in the safety harness. Michael runs to a small control. There's a big red button on the control, with the word STOP on it. But Michael stands on the little girl's ice-cream, falls and crashes into the control. He hurts his head, and he doesn't push the button.

Michael Quick! When the spaceship gets to the top of the roller coaster it's going to come down at sixty miles an hour!

Kelly can see the spaceship. It's climbing slowly into the dark. She runs to the button and pushes hard. Then all of the lights in the building are on! The spaceships that are climbing up the roller-coaster stop. But the spaceships that are coming down the roller-coaster don't stop. The music isn't playing now. People are shouting from the spaceships. Jessica talks into a microphone.

Jessica Please don't move. Everything is safe. The ride is going to start again in a few minutes. Please don't move. Everything is safe.

Michael gets up. He's holding his head.

Kelly Are you OK, Michael?

Michael I don't know, it's my head ... it's hurting.

Kelly Sit down.

Kelly can hear crying. It's the little girl. The spaceship is on the track, but the track is going up at an angle of 45°. The little girl is holding the back of the spaceship. The woman in the back of the spaceship is shouting.

Woman She can't hold it ... and I can't move! Do something!

Kelly looks up at the track. Then she starts to climb up the track. There's black oil from the track on her silver suit. She shouts to the little girl.

Kelly It's OK, honey. Hold on! I'm coming! You're going to be OK.

Kelly is twenty metres up the track now, and the sides of the tunnel stop. Then there are no sides. Kelly looks down. It's a long way. She can see the roller-coaster tracks going down and turning.

Forty metres. The angle is 45°. Ten more metres. Kelly holds the spaceship and puts her arm around the little girl.

Kelly OK, honey. I've got you now. You're safe.

The little girl is crying. The woman in the back of the spaceship is crying, too.

Kelly What's your name, honey?

Girl Sally. I want to go on the ride.

Kelly OK, Sally, you're on the ride now, honey.

Michael is shouting up at her.

Michael Is everything OK, Kelly?

Kelly Yes. I've got her.

Michael We're coming to get you.

One minute later, Jessica and Michael are with her. They're standing next to the spaceship. But how? Kelly looks down. There are steps next to the track.

Michael We can't all climb up the track, you know. We just walk up the emergency steps, Kelly.

They all walk down the steps. Jessica goes to the microphone.

2 Video games

Don walked along the street. There it was. A huge neon sign, 'Video games. All the latest machines.' Don stopped outside. He could hear the games. Rat-tat-tat-tat! Kapow! Zoom! Crash! He walked into the dark arcade. There was a long queue of kids at the back of the arcade. Three machines were making all the noise. There were fifty or sixty machines in the arcade, but the kids were using only three. They were queuing to play on them. Don looked at the other machines. Nobody was playing on any of them. He walked over to the queue. None of the kids were talking. They were all looking at the three games at the front. They were all the same. They were all called Mastergame. Don moved towards the front of the queue.

A girl held his arm, 'Hey, there's a queue. Can't you see?'

'Er ... I don't want to play. I'm just looking.'

'Well, wait for your turn! We all want to watch.'

Don joined the queue. A large sign said, 'One game only, then go to the back of the queue.' The games were very short – sometimes thirty seconds, sometimes a minute. The longest game he saw was two minutes, and then everyone clapped when the player finished. At last, Don was near the front. The player controlled a spaceship and fired missiles at alien spaceships. It looked the same as any other 3D video game. Why was it so popular? Don was at the front now. He sat down and put in two coins and started to move his spaceship forward.

The alien spaceships were beautiful. A green and gold light shimmered around them. He couldn't look away from the screen. Twenty seconds later his spaceship was destroyed. He wanted to try again. He put his hand in his pocket for more money. Suddenly everybody was shouting.

'Hey! Only one game!'

'Go to the back of the queue!'

'You've had your turn!'

He turned away from the machine and started to walk out. Then he stopped. This was the back of the queue ... just one more game. He had to try again. No, it was silly ... but just one more game ... one more, that's all.

'I need more money. I've got to have more money. Next time I can win. I know it.' A boy was speaking. He was about fifteen.

Don spoke to him, 'Do you often play Mastergame?'

'Often! I've played twelve times today. You have to queue for a long time, but next week they're getting five more machines. Isn't that wonderful?'

Don felt happy. Five more machines! Shorter queues! He could play every day. It was wonderful. He joined the queue and he put his hand into his pocket for more change. He didn't have any! He looked round.

There was a sign saying 'Change given here'. He left the queue and went to the cash desk. Suddenly he stopped. That was it! The kids had to play. That was the reason for the robberies and for the requests for change. Mastergame was like a drug. It was an addiction.

3 A new game

A large man with grey hair was sitting at the cash desk. Don said, 'That Mastergame is really good. Are you getting more machines?'

The man looked up. 'Yeah. Five more machines next week.'

Don smiled and said, 'Are they very expensive?'

'Oh, you can't buy them. They aren't for sale. Mastervideo owns them.'

'Mastervideo?' asked Don.

'Yeah. They put in the machines and they take 90% of the money. I get 10%. I get 50% on all the other machines but 10% of Mastergame is better than 50% of the others.'

'Really?' said Don

'Yeah. We have to empty the machines twenty times a day. They're fantastic.'

'I've never seen them before,' said Don.

'No. We're the first arcade with Mastergame. You see, Mastervideo is a local company. Their factory is just outside town. They're testing Mastergame here.'

'You're very lucky,' said Don.

'Yeah,' said the man, 'and I can play it for nothing when we're closed. I don't have to pay.'

'Do you play it?' asked Don.

'Oh, yeah. I love it,' said the man. 'I played it for seven hours last night. I couldn't stop. It's the best game I've ever played.'

Don got back to the office and sat down at his desk. There was a story for the newspaper here. A good story. He picked up the telephone directory. There it was, 'Mastervideo, Avenue 4, New Trading Estate, Casterford. Tel. 01229 361852'. Don keyed in the number carefully. A woman answered.

'Hello, Mastervideo?'

'Hello. This is the Castershire Evening News. I wanted to ask you about Mastergame.'

'Wait.'

Don waited for a few minutes. Then he heard a man's voice.

'What do you want?'

'It's about Mastergame ...'

'Yes?'

'It's very popular.'

'Yes.'
 'Can I come and interview you about it?'
 'No. No, you see it's very new. We don't want other companies to know about it. Goodbye.'

4 At the factory

Don drove slowly past the factory later that day. There were no windows. There was a high electric fence and two guards with dogs at the gate. He drove past the factory twice, then he went to a friend's house. Julie was a scientist. She was an expert on computers. Don told her about Mastergame.

'New games are always more popular,' she said.

'This is different, Julie. Come and see.'

They drove to the town centre. Don parked carefully outside the video arcade. A sign on the door said, 'Closed', but a light was on. Don pushed the door. It was open. They walked in quietly. They could hear a loud humming noise. Mastergame was on. Nobody was playing. The large man was sitting in front of one machine. He was asleep.

'Look at him,' said Don. 'He's tired because he plays Mastergame all night.'

'Show me the game,' said Julie.

Don felt happy. He put two coins into the next machine and the alien spaceship appeared. He smiled. He felt wonderful. He began to move his spaceship. Suddenly the screen went black. He looked round angrily.

'I did it. I stopped the machine,' said Julie. 'Get me a screwdriver.'

An hour later Julie looked up.

'This is it,' she said. 'It's completely new. It hypnotises you, then it sends messages for a very short time, for a two-hundredth of a second. It tells you that you must play again.'

'But, that's terrible!' said Don. 'The kids are stealing money to play.'

Julie smiled. 'You're the journalist,' she said. 'You can stop it. Just tell everyone about it.'

5 One more cup of coffee

The Mastergame article was a great success. It was in the Castershire Evening News, then in the national daily newspapers. There was a television programme about it. When the TV cameras went to Mastervideo's factory, it was empty.

Don Wolfe got a better job. He became a journalist for the Daily News, a national newspaper. He had to move to London. On his last day in Casterford he returned to the coffee bar where it all started, weeks before. It wasn't empty now. It was full of people. People were queuing outside. Don went in. The counter wasn't there. Now there was a long row of automatic vending machines, a coffee machine, a sandwich machine, a cake machine and a donut machine. Kids were putting money into the vending machines. Don saw Mr Powell. He was sitting at a table with a plastic coffee cup. Mr Powell waved.

'Do you like the new restaurant?' he asked.

'Yes, it's very nice,' said Don.

'Get a cup of coffee and sit down,' said Mr Powell.

Don went to the nearest machine and put in some money. It was expensive for a coffee machine. Lights began flashing as the machine operated. They were lovely lights. They were green and gold and shimmering. There was a wonderful smell of coffee, too. He wanted a coffee very much. He loved coffee. He picked up the coffee cup. A sandwich! He was really hungry. He wanted a sandwich. A tuna sandwich. He put in his coins. Lights flashed again. He could hear Mr Powell's voice. It sounded a long way away.

'It's wonderful coffee. I drink nearly twenty cups a day.'

The sandwich arrived. It was in a green and gold plastic box. Don looked at the box. It said Mastersandwich. Don smiled. He was very hungry. A donut! He was going to buy a donut.

3 One more cup of coffee

The Mastermind article was a great success. It was in the Cashmere Evening News, then in the national daily newspapers. There was a television programme about it. When the TV cameras went to Mastermind's factory, it was empty.

Don Wolfe got a better job. He became a journalist for the Daily News, a national newspaper. He had to move to London. On his last day in Cheadle he returned to the coffee bar where it all started, weeks
